

Growth Group Female Assistant Leader Role Description

What is a Growth Group Leader wanting to achieve?

Growth in maturity in the knowledge of God

That each person is deepening in their knowledge of God and relationship with Him, desiring more and more to serve and glorify Him with their life.

What is the role of a Female Assistant Leader?

The Female Assistant Leader works with the leader to see the women in the group deepening in their knowledge of God and relationship with Him, desiring more and more to serve and glorify Him with their life.

How will this happen? Bible, Prayer & Community.

Bible

The Female Assistant Leader should help the women engage with God's Word, having their thinking, convictions and actions shaped by the Word. This can happen through discussion during the group study, in split guys/girls reflection and prayer time, and in conversations with individuals.

Prayer

When the group splits for separate guys/girls reflection and prayer time, the Female Assistant Leader is to lead their time together. She should help the women to bring their requests to God, with thanksgiving and the desire to grow and change.

Community

Working with and assisting the Growth Group Leader, the Female Assistant Leader should pay attention to the community life of the group, encouraging connection, and acts of love and service between members. She is particularly concerned for the women's connection within the group. A further outcome of growth will be that each member will be involved in service of others (ministry), and in the sharing of bringing the gospel to the lives of others (mission).
